The Balochi is a very rich language, full of vocabularies, idioms and idiomatic phrases, lullabies, folk stories, folk songs, and folk literature. It is also full of writers, poets, researchers, and linguists.

Before 19th century, Balochi was an unwritten language. The reason was that there were not any literary personality and linguists in Baloch community till mid-19th century. However, there have been a lot of literary works in Balochi language from 1950s onward. As Sayad Hashmi believed, the mid-19th period and twentieth century were renaissance of Balochi language.
